

This listing is for a 2003 Ford Excursion XLT 4x4. This truck is a single owner (municipality) owned vehicle with 30,981 miles (mileage may increase some during this listing). The Excursion has been kept in climate-controlled storage throughout its service, and was just recently pulled out of service with a replacement. The truck has only one rust spot to note on the passenger side corner panel and one dent on the passenger side rear door. All four rims are blemish free without any oxidization. The doors and rocker panels are rust free, with only surface rust to note on the frame. All emergency warning equipment has been removed except the noted flashers on the fenders, quarter panels, rear doors, and the shoreline power connection point. Some associated wiring for this service equipment does remain in the vehicle, given only the hardware was removed. With the removal of the overhead lightbar and radio antenna, the holes in the roof have been plugged and sealed with silicone.

Interior is complete with all factory hardware re-installed after being taken out of service. The passenger side rear door panel has drill holes to note following service hardware removal. The rear cargo doors have emergency lighting hardware remaining and the right-side door panel has damage to note (see attached pictures). All seats are free major blemishes and tears and the carpet has no major staining / tears to note.

All complete vehicle maintenance was conducted annually. There are no known issues to note, with all components working as applicable. The vehicle is being sold in as-is condition only.
